INTRODUCTION

The Maritime Provinces Graduate Follow-Up Survey is carried out annually by the Provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The survey questionnaire was developed jointly by the three provinces and is designed primarily to determine the employment results of graduates from recent training programs.

In New Brunswick, the Maritime Survey is conducted by the Department of Advanced Education and Training/New Brunswick Community Colleges and includes those students who successfully completed Full-Time Training in selected categories at the Colleges.

This report presents an overview of the results of the 1984-1985 Graduate Follow-Up Survey, carried out in the spring of 1986. It contains selected summary information on the survey population. To access additional, more detailed statistical tables, refer to the Computer Reports Binder which accompanies this report. These additional tables provide detailed results by category, by program, by location and by sponsorship.

Section 1 describes the methodology employed and cites factors which may have affected the accuracy of the survey. A brief summary of the response rate information is given in this section. Section 2 presents a profile of the 1984-1985 graduates in terms of age, gender and employment characteristics. Sections 3 and 4 summarize the results by sponsor type; Sponsored (CEIC) and Non-Sponsored respectively.

HIGHLIGHTS

Following are some of the highlights from the analyses of data gathered in the 1984-1985 survey.

- approximately 75.7 per cent of the graduates surveyed fell in the 15-24 age group;

- the overall response rate for the survey was 69.3 per cent;

- 69.2 per cent of the 1984-1985 respondents in the labour force were employed either full or part-time;

- the overall unemployment rate for all graduates responding to the survey was 30.7 per cent, as compared with the unemployment rate of 30.0 per cent for the 15-24 age group in New Brunswick;

- the unemployment rate for male respondents was 36.3 per cent and 23.7 per cent for female respondents;

- the average weekly salary for all full-time employed respondents was $286;

- for Technology graduates the average full-time weekly salary was $315; salaries ranged from a low of $172 (Environmental Technology) to a high of $479 (Chemical Technology);

- the average weekly full-time salary for Pre-Employment graduates was $268; salaries ranged from a low of $176 (Beauty Culture) to a high of $475 (Professional Forestry Worker);

- of the employed graduates, 76.7 per cent reported work related to their training, either directly or indirectly;

- 71.3 per cent of male and 82.5 per cent of female graduates indicated their work was related to their training, either directly or indirectly;

- at the time of the survey 3.3 per cent of all respondents were engaged in full-time study.

DEFINITIONS

The following terms are used throughout the survey:

A) CATEGORIES OF TRAINING

TECHNOLOGY PROGRAMS

Lead to a diploma of Technology and the training enables the graduate to develop scientific principles and ideas in management, research, design, development, production, distribution or service.

AND

The training prepares the trainee to perform technological functions in a physical science, life science, business or engineering specialization.

AND

They normally require high school completion for entrance.

AND

They are normally of two-years duration.

TECHNICAL PROGRAMS

Lead to a Technical Certificate.

AND

The training enables the graduate to apply scientific principles and practical technical details in relation to management, research, design, development, production, distribution or service.

AND

The training prepares the graduate to perform a limited number of technical functions in a physical science, life science, business or engineering specialization.

AND

They normally require high school completion for entrance.

AND

They are normally of one-year duration.

PRE-EMPLOYMENT PROGRAMS

Prepare trainees for employment as skilled workers in a trade, occupation or business where the emphasis is on manual skills and the performance of routine procedures.

AND

They are normally of duration of one year or less.

UPGRADING PROGRAMS

The training is designed to upgrade skills and knowledge.

AND

Trainees may want to update their qualifications due to technological changes or other developments.

AND

Trainees have had prior training and/or work experience.

AND

They are normally of less than one year in length.

B) STUDENT SPONSOR TYPES

1. NON-SPONSORED TRAINEE

   A trainee occupying a training place subsidized by the Department of Advanced Education and Training.

2. SPONSORED TRAINEE

   A trainee occupying a training place not subsidized by the Department of Advanced Education and Training.

   a) CEIC SPONSORED TRAINEE

      A trainee occupying a training place subsidized by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission.

   b) INDUSTRY SPONSORED TRAINEE

      A trainee occupying a training place subsidized by an industry (i.e. N.B. Coal, McCain Foods, Fraser Inc., etc.)

   c) OTHER SPONSORED TRAINEE

      A trainee occupying a training place subsidized by other than the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission or industry (i.e. Federal Department of Indian and Northern Affairs, Department of Social Services, Rehabilitation, etc.)

C) PRESENT STATUS

The status of the graduate at the time of survey. The status was either-
In the Labour Force
- Employed
- Unemployed

or - Out of the Labour Force

Out of the Labour Force includes those who
- were engaged in a Full-Time Training Activity (i.e. - Full-Time Study)
- had Personal or Family Responsibilities
- had an Illness or Disability

D) $$\text{RESPONSE RATE} = \frac{\text{NUMBER OF GRADUATES WHO RESPONDED TO THE SURVEY}}{\text{NUMBER OF GRADUATES WHO WERE SURVEYED}} \times 100$$

E) $$\text{EMPLOYMENT RATE} = \frac{\text{NUMBER OF GRADUATES EMPLOYED}}{\text{NUMBER OF GRADUATES IN THE LABOUR FORCE}} \times 100$$

Note: According to Statistics Canada, the definition for unemployed includes full-time students who are looking for part-time employment. However, for the purpose of this survey, this group has been considered as out of the Labour Force.

1 METHODOLOGY

The survey was limited to programs with an average training length of greater than 20 weeks which fell under one of the following categories: Technology, Technical, Pre-Employment, Special or Upgrading. Programs which fell under Academic Upgrading, Job Readiness, Second Language Training and Apprenticeship categories were not included in the survey. The survey population included those who graduated at any time during the period July 1, 1984 through June 30, 1985.

The survey was scheduled to be carried out by mail during the period March 10, 1986 to April 18, 1986. However, in order to increase the rate of return the cut-off date was extended to April 26. A goal of 70 per cent or more was set for the response rate; the overall response rate attained was 69.3 per cent.

The questionnaire was essentially the same as that used in the 1983-1984 survey. Some questions were reworded in order to clarify the response and the reference week was changed to March 3-7, 1986. Respondents were asked to state their activity (i.e. employed or unemployed) during the reference week. Samples of the questionnaire in both English and French can be found in Appendix A.

1.1 ACCURACY OF THE SURVEY

The accuracy of the survey results may have been affected by the following factors:

1) RESPONDENT ERROR

This type of error occurs when the respondent mistakenly checks or prints an incorrect response while thinking he has checked or answered the correct one, or when the respondent intentionally provides the wrong answer.

Example: A respondent indicates that he has been employed for the 10 months since graduation then responds to the section for those unemployed.

2) ERRORS BY OTHER THAN DESIRED RESPONDENTS

Errors may have occured when the required information was provided by someone other than the desired respondent.

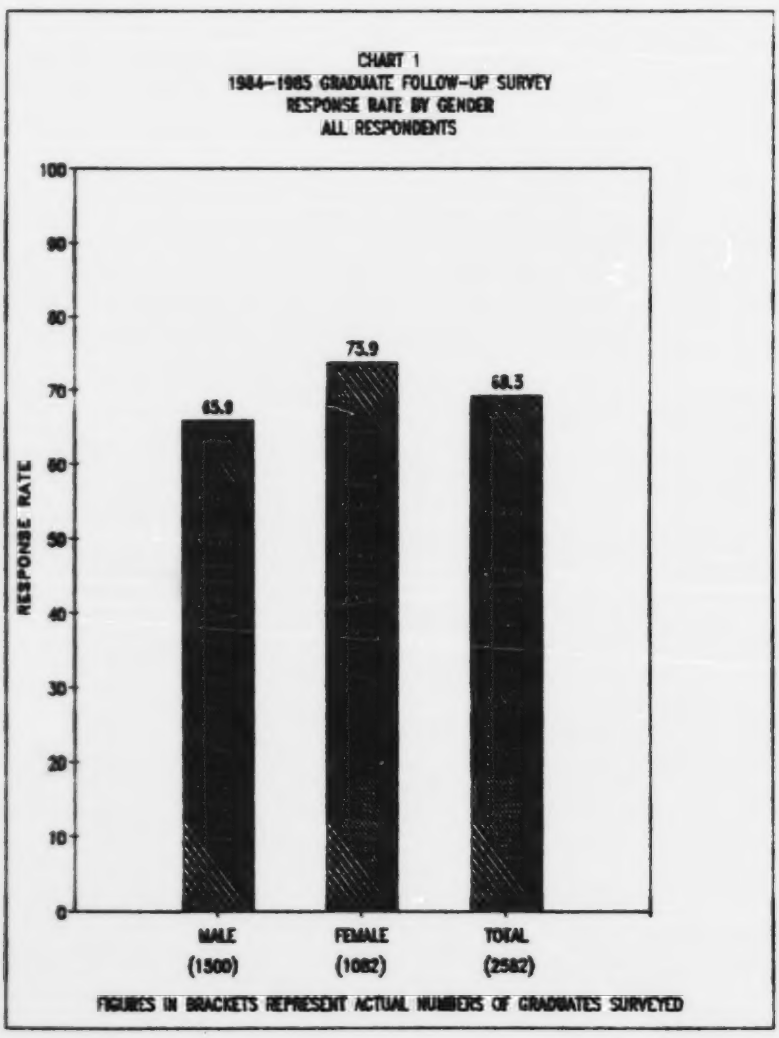
3) PROCESSING ERROR

This type of error occurs from the transcription of the answers by the investigator(s).

Example: The response is coded incorrectly. For instance, the respondent may have indicated a bi-weekly salary rate of $750; this was coded incorrectly as a weekly rate which would result in an inflated average rate.

1.2 RESPONSE RATE

A total of 2,582 graduates were surveyed; of this number 1,789 responded resulting in an overall response rate of 69.3 per cent. The response rate varied widely between programs and between Colleges. Data on the response rate by category, by program, by location, and by sponsorship, can be found in Table 1 of the Computer Reports binder. It should be noted that in some instances, the number of graduates who responded was quite low. Information on programs with a small number of graduates and/or low response rate should be used with caution.



2 PROFILE OF THE 1984-1985 GRADUATES

The information included in Section 2 will provide a profile of the graduates who responded to the survey according to age, gender, employment status, earnings and location of employment. Section 3 gives a summary of the survey results for Sponsored (CEIC) graduates and Section 4 for Non-Sponsored graduates. Note that the Non-Sponsored results also include those graduates considered as Sponsored (Industry) and Sponsored (Other).

2.1 AGE

As can be seen from the data presented in Table 2.1, approximately 76.0 per cent of the graduates surveyed fell in the 15-24 age group. Age refers to the age of the graduate at the date of enrollment in the program surveyed.

2.2 GENDER

As indicated by Table 2.2, the majority (58.1 per cent) of the graduates surveyed were male.

2.3 LABOUR FORCE STATUS

Table 2.3 shows the distribution of respondents according to labour force status. The labour force participation rate for all respondents was 94.1 per cent with 5.9 per cent not in the labour force. Overall, the unemployment rate was 30.8 per cent. This is comparable to the unemployment rate of 30.0 per cent for the New Brunswick labour force 15-24 age group in March 1986. The unemployment rate for the total labour force in New Brunswick was 17.6 per cent for the same time period.

Of those who responded, a higher percentage of men than women were unemployed. (See Chart 2, page 15). The unemployment rate for men was 36.3 per cent and for women 23.8 per cent.

The unemployment rate for the 1983-1984 graduates surveyed in March 1985 was 32.4 per cent compared with 32.2 per cent for the New Brunswick labour force aged 15-24.

Chart 3 shows the employment status of all respondents in the labour force by category of training. Graduates of Technology and Technical programs appear more successful in finding employment than graduates from Pre-Employment programs.

2.4 EARNINGS OF ALL RESPONDENTS EMPLOYED FULL-TIME

The data in Table 2.4 show the percentage distribution of all full-time employed respondents by level of annual income. As revealed by these data, an average of 15.0 per cent earned less than $10,000, while 10.0 per cent earned $20,000 or more.

This table also shows the percentage distributions of full-time employed respondents by gender and by level of annual income. As indicated by these data, 7.2 per cent of males and 24.9 per cent of females earned less than $10,000. Of the male respondents, 23.1 per cent earned $20,000 or more while 4.8 per cent of female respondents reported earnings of $20,000 or more. The average salary earned by males was $16,744 and by females $12,584. Comparisons of the salary data by gender should be made with caution. An in-depth study of the data would have to be made to determine if there are factors which impact the salaries received by women. For example, more women than men may be employed in lower paid occupations.

2.5 RELATION OF WORK TO TRAINING

Chart 4 shows the distribution of employed male and female respondents according to the relation of their work to the training received. A higher proportion of women than men were successful in obtaining work related to their training.

Table 2.5 shows the percentage distributions of respondents by relation of work to training, by category of training, for the Technology, Technical and Pre-Employment categories. Due to the relatively small number surveyed and the low response rate, survey results of graduates from Upgrading programs have not been included in this table.

Refer to Report No. 2, pages 1 to 14 in the Computer Reports binder, for information on the relation of work to training for individual programs.

2.7 REASONS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

Of the 1,683 respondents in the labour force, 30.7 per cent indicated they were unemployed. Table 2.7 shows the percentage distributions of male and female respondents by reason unemployed. The graduates were asked to select from the options listed the main reason, in their opinion, for their current unemployment. As indicated by the response, the major reason for unemployment appears to be the lack of employment opportunities.

It is of interest to note that 31.1 per cent of the total unemployed (518) were either waiting for a job to start, waiting recall for temporary/seasonal work or waiting recall from a temporary layoff.

A comparison table of selected survey data for all respondents, for the 1983-1984 and 1984-1985 years, can be found in Appendix B.

3 SURVEY RESULTS - SPONSORED (CEIC) RESPONDENTS

Section 2 outlined the survey results for All Respondents; this section presents a summary of the survey results for Sponsored (CEIC) Respondents.

3.0 RESPONSE RATE

Of the 1,059 Sponsored (CEIC) graduates surveyed, 699 responded giving a response rate of 66.0 per cent. This was similar to the 1983-1984 survey results when 65.9 per cent responded. Data on the response rate by program and by College, can be found in Table 1 in the Computer Reports binder.

3.1 AGE

Approximately 68 per cent of the federally sponsored graduates surveyed were between the ages of 20-29 at the time of enrollment.

3.3 LABOUR FORCE STATUS

The labour force participation rate for Sponsored (CEIC) respondents in March 1986 was 95.0 per cent, with 5.0 per cent not in the labour force. As stated in the preceding section, graduates who indicated they were studying full-time, not working due to illness or disability or because of personal or family responsibilities, were not counted as part of the labour force.

Overall, the unemployment rate for this sponsor type was 39.9 per cent; for males the rate was 44.1 per cent and for females 33.1 per cent. Table 3.3 presents a summary of Sponsored (CEIC) respondents by labour force status and by gender.

Refer to Chart 6, page 29, for a breakdown of respondents in the labour force, by employment status and by gender.

3.4 EARNINGS OF SPONSORED (CEIC) RESPONDENTS EMPLOYED FULL-TIME

Overall, Sponsored (CEIC) respondents reported average earnings of $15,392. The majority of the federally sponsored respondents were included in the Pre-Employment category; the average salary for this category was $14,196.

On average, the results indicated that men earned higher salaries than women. Overall, for this sponsor type, the average salary earned by males was $17,472 and for females $12,064. In the Pre-Employment category the average salary for males was $15,912 and for females $11,856.

3.5 RELATION OF WORK TO TRAINING

Of those employed (including full- and part-time), 57.7 per cent reported they had work directly related to their training. For the distribution by individual program of the relation of work to training, refer to Report No. 2A, pages 1 to 9 in the Computer Reports binder.

Analysis of the data by gender indicate a larger proportion of female than male respondents were successful in finding work related to training (Chart 7).

3.6 LOCATION OF EMPLOYMENT

Of those employed, 91.9 per cent had work in New Brunswick; 3.8 per cent elsewhere in Atlantic Canada and 4.3 per cent elsewhere in Canada. Table 3.6 shows the distribution of both full- and part-time employed male and female respondents, by location of employment.

3.7 REASONS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

Of the 664 Sponsored (CEIC) graduates in the labour force, 39.9 per cent indicated they were unemployed. Proportionately more men than women were unemployed. The rates for men and women differed by 11 percentage points. Responses suggest the main reason for unemployment, for both men and women, is the lack of employment opportunities (Table 3.7). Refer to Report No. 4A in the Computer Reports binder, for data on the distribution by program of the reasons for unemployment.

4 SURVEY RESULTS - NON-SPONSORED GRADUATES

Included in the Non-Sponsored data are the results for graduates considered as Sponsored (Industry) and Sponsored (Other). Of the population surveyed, less than one per cent was comprised of graduates from the previous two sponsor types.

4.0 RESPONSE RATE

The number of graduates surveyed was 1,523, while the number of respondents was 1,090; this represents a response rate of 71.6 per cent. Table 1, in the Computer Reports binder, provides information on the response rate by program and by location of training.

4.1 AGE

The majority (approximately 60 per cent) of the Non-Sponsored graduates surveyed were 19 years of age or less at the time of enrollment, whereas the majority of federally sponsored graduates (approximately 68 per cent) were between 20-29 when they enrolled.

4.3 LABOUR FORCE STATUS

Overall, the labour force participation rate of Non-Sponsored respondents was 94.1 per cent with 5.8 per cent not in the labour force. The majority of respondents not in the labour force indicated they were studying full-time (Table 4.3).

The unemployment rate for this sponsor type of graduate was 24.8 per cent; 5.8 percentage points less than the 30.0 per cent rate for the New Brunswick population aged 15-24 in March, 1986.

The unemployment rate for women (18.8 per cent) was much lower than the rate for men (30.2 per cent). Chart 9 gives a breakdown of respondents in the labour force by employment status and gender.

4.4 EARNINGS OF NON-SPONSORED RESPONDENTS EMPLOYED FULL-TIME

The overall average salary for Non-Sponsored respondents was $14,612. The average salary reported for the Technology category was $16,016; for Technical $14,560, and for Pre-Employment $13,728.

The data in Table 4.4 show the percentage distributions of Non-Sponsored respondents by level of annual income and by gender.

The average salary earned by males was $16,432 and by females $12,792. As referred to earlier in this report, a simple comparison of salary data for males and females can be misleading. More detailed analysis of the data would have to be carried out to determine if there are factors which impact the differences in earnings.

4.5 RELATION OF WORK TO TRAINING

The majority (56.6 per cent) were employed in work directly related to their training. The distribution, by individual program, of the relation of work to training is given in Report No. 2B in the Computer Reports binder.

The results indicate women were more successful than men in finding work related to their training (Chart 10).
